

URBAN REGENERATION MIX - who we are?

We are an international network for the transfer of good practices in the field of social aspects of urban regeneration, which aims to increase citizens' involvement and participation in the urban regeneration process. The project involves seven partner cities from different parts of Europe, which face the challenges posed by degraded areas and people living in them.

THREE-PRONGED APPROACH TO SUCCESSFUL REGENERATION - the way to achieve social mix in historical area

The Lodz Good Practice is working on social mix in the given area (including mix of populations, activities, types of infrastructure etc) as well as developing the quality of life in a historical city centre. The Urban Regeneration Mix partner cities will be working in a cross-fertilization way on three main themes, in order to try to improve the partner city practices, not only by transferring some of the experiences of the lead partner Lodz, but also by interchanging their mutual experiences [...]Read more [\[here\]](#)

Let's start talking about people in the process of revitalization - Kick off meeting in Łódź

On 21st-23rd January in Lodz, took place our first Transnational Meeting. During three days of joint work we systematized the knowledge about the Urbact method, talked a lot about the transfer plans, but above all we started to share our experience in the field of regeneration. (More about our meeting you can read here)

URBACT LOCAL GROUP - News from city

- Braga focused on defining a specific neighborhood in the city that can work as a catalyst for experimenting and creating relations between the local community and the municipality in urban regeneration. They also have partnerships with the Architecture School into creating experimental participatory activities that will start in September..
- ULG In Toulouse, during its meeting, focused mainly on the discussion on new participatory methods and how to improve them.
- In Zagreb organize meetings with representatives of social sciences - anthropologist Bojan Mucko and sociologist Jana Vukic. At the moment they also are working on the organizing the focus groups - the first one will consist of students.
- ULG in Bologna discussed with local stakeholders the cooperation with the Dams Lab- faculty of the arts of the University of Bologna , which is ready to open its spaces to local institutions and citizens in order to disseminate culture. They also invited all interested to fill in forms in order to indicate which events they would like to organize in this area. All ideas will be analyzed and shared at future ULG meetings.
- In Łódź, on the first stage, two areas of ULG activity have been designated. On both areas mediators work to developed contacts with local leaders and institutions interested in activities for the local community , which contributed to the organization of the meetings with revitalization stakeholders - potential new members of ULG – during which they discussed about the needs of residents in particular areas. ULG members also actively participate in city events (Łódź Senioralia), conferences and forums where they share their knowledge in field of revitalization and URM project
